Celebrating World Postcard Day by Matt Neilson, KWPS Club Member

On October 1, 1868, the postcard was first officially issued and recognized by a postal operator, the Austrian Post. In a world of increasingly digital messages, there is still nothing that compares to receiving a postcard in the mail.

We celebrate World Postcard Day on October 1 each year marking the anniversary of this event. The goal of the day is to share this unique method of communication to bring joy to those around us. You can get involved by sending a postcard to a friend.

This year, members of the KW Philatelic Society submitted a few postcards from their collections, and we headed out into town to recreate the scenes. Maybe some of the postcards you send on October 1 will be references decades from now to capture what life was like in 2022.
